GREENEVILLE

New Officers of Holy Name Society Were Installed—Special Public Service.

The monthly meeting of the Holy Name society was held in their assembly room at 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening with a large number in attendance and much business transacted. The officers for the past year closed their labors, with applications for membership receiving favorable attention.

Rev. J. H. Fitzmaurice installed the new officers, ex-President Joseph A. Donnelly and ex-Vice President James W. Murphy doing escort duty to the new board which comprises President Michael J. Curran, Vice President William T. Mahoney, Recording Secretary Alfred Driscoll, Financial Secretary and Treasurer Charles J. Mullane, Sacristan Michael J. Dwyer, President Curran thanked the body for the honor bestowed upon him and assured them that with their cooperation and assistance he would endeavor to make it one of the banner societies of the state. He appointed as consultants for the year John J. Shea, Narcissus J. LaVallee, Thomas P. Connelly and Francis P. McNamara.

The public exercises in the church were held at 7:30 with a large congregation at hand. The choir sang by Father Kennedy and following the Magnificat the society rendered their anthem with much expression. An excellent sermon was preached by Rev. W. A. Keefe of Plainfield.

MISS EMMA HANKO

BULLETIN'S COOKING SCHOOL

Secrets of Successful Homemaking to be Taught by Miss Emma Hanko—Noted Domestic Science Lecturer Will Conduct Series of Classes.

A school of methods for housekeeping and cooking has been planned by The Bulletin for the women of Norwich. It will be held in Y. M. C. A. hall, and will be conducted by Miss Emma Hanko of Wisconsin, who is a graduate of Pratt Institute of Domestic Science in Brooklyn. Miss Hanko has been giving courses in domestic science for active housewives in all the leading cities of New England, and has met with much success. She is a young but very entertaining and instructive lecturer, with a pleasing personality which at once wins over the most unenthusiastic audiences. She believes in domestic science with all her heart and mind, and very soon arouses this belief in the most conservative "old school" housewives, who are prone to hold to the opinion that domestic science is a new-fangled idea not intended for practical household use.

Miss Hanko, though quite a young woman, is a thoroughly experienced housekeeper, and has proven to her own satisfaction that the principles of domestic science are thoroughly usable and are invaluable to the woman who desires to conduct her homemaking and housekeeping along the lines of efficiency and greatest efficiency.

Is Excellent Cook.

Miss Hanko's reputation does not rest wholly on her ability as a lecturer. She is also a famous cook, and will demonstrate this to the entire satisfaction of those who attend her classes in Y. M. C. A. hall last week in January.

All Can Be Good Cooks.

Miss Hanko maintains that any woman can be as fine a cook as she desires to be, by the use of a few fundamental principles which it is not difficult to learn, and which are the foundation of all good cooking methods. Miss Hanko will teach these principles in her classes at Y. M. C. A. hall, and will also show just how to apply them in preparing the everyday dishes required for the nourishment of the family.

All of these and many other interesting facts and fancies make Miss Hanko's housekeeping and cooking lessons most popular wherever she goes, and no Norwich housewife can afford to miss any of the sessions of The Bulletin's School of Methods for Housekeepers which will be held in Y. M. C. A. hall last week in January.
